Request: Extension of Thesis submission Date

Dear Deputy Dean Dr. Rohaida Basiruddin

I am writing this letter to request an extension of 12 months to submit my thesis. The previous notification will expire on 24 October 2018, and I still need more time to complete my thesis writing.

I have health issue related to my spine, A herniated cervical disk in my neck C4/C5, and a herniated disc in the lumbar spine my back and that gave me (Sciatica) and scoliosis. These injuries in my spine limited my mobility and I am in physiotherapy since then. This year I admitted twice to the hospital with H.pylori infection . Due to these unfortunate events seen please accept my request to extend my notification for another 12 months. ~~Being~~

Sincerely

Zeinab Babo

MR_SP - WHOLE SPINE

MRI WHOLE SPINE 29/11/2016

Clinical data :

37 y.o Sudanese lady, case of scoliosis, presented with back pain with right lower limb radiculopathy and neck pain with upper limb right radiculopathy, associated with headache. TRO Chiari, PID L4/L4 and C5/C6.

Protocol :

T1, T2 and STIR datasets were acquired.

Findings :

A right paracentral herniated disc at C4/C5 indents onto the anterior theca sac. High signal intensity of the annular fibrosus at the region of the herniated disc suggest an annular tear. The spinal cord at the point of contact with the herniated disc returns normal signal intensity. The exiting nerves are not impinged. No neuroforaminal narrowing. Loss of normal cervical lordosis. The cervicomedullary junction is normally located. Vertebral body heights and intervertebral disc spaces are preserved. No abnormal signal intensity changes of the visualized vertebral spine. Spinal cord is ends at level of L1 vertebra. Visualized spinal cord returns normal in signal intensity. Loss of normal signal intensity of the intervertebral discs at level of L4/L5 and L5/S1, suggestive desiccated discs. Diffuse posterior disc bulges indenting onto the anterior thecal sac also seen at L4/L5 and L5/S1 level. The neuroforamina and lateral recesses are spacious. No exiting or traversing nerve roots impingement. No significant spinal canal stenosis. Minimal thickening of the ligamentum falvum. No facet joint hypertrophied.

Impression :

Right paracentral C4/C5 herniated disc with annular tear, mildly compressing onto the anterior theca sac. No signal abnormality of the spinal cord.
